ANALYSIS

BRAD FREE

- 1—A.P. Indy
2—Cristofori
3—Pine Bluff
Longshot—Agincourt

It takes speed and class to win the Belmont, and since his maiden win last fall, A.P. INDY has been a study in both. The son of Seattle Slew has a tractable running style which gives Eddie Delahoussaye the option to place him wherever appropriate, and the $2.9 million yearling has demonstrated his class by winning six straight.

A.P. Indy can lay off the speed or go to the front, and his pedigree suggests he'll have no difficulty with the mile and a half trip. But what makes the colt even more of a dominating presence in this year's Belmont is his current condition. He enters the race as a fresh horse, having raced only once since the Santa Anita Derby. He comes off a scintillating win in the Peter Pan, in which he finished as powerfully as he did in his best previous race—the San Rafael Stakes on February 29 at Santa Anita.

With as many handicapping factors as he has in his favor—speed, class, a conditioning edge and a solid race over the track—A.P. Indy is nothing short of a mortal lock to demonstrate his superiority over a moderate crop of 3-year-olds.

CRISTOFORI is an interesting longshot who ships in from France. The colt's pedigree (by Fappiano) and running style (speed) suggests he should be more comfortable racing on dirt, and the critical element of early speed cannot be overemphasized. While he tired in his most recent start at Longchamp, that race is likely to have done the colt a world of good. Horses moving from turf to dirt often hold a solid edge in conditioning, and Cristofori will be on or near the pace throughout the contest. He's a token bet to win, but a solid play to complete the exacta with the best horse in the line-up.

PINE BLUFF was a gritty winner of the Preakness, but the colt's late-running style isn't always conducive to the manner in which the Belmont is generally run—with a slow early pace. Pine Bluff is a consistent, workmanlike son of Danzig who will run his race. The question is whether his best is good enough under circumstances that figure to compromise the chances of a come-from-behinder.

AGINCOURT looms an interesting longshot candidate to finish in the money, as Belmont is his favorite race-track. CASUAL LIES will be plodding around the track in his quest for the $1 million bonus, but he has yet to display the brilliance normally associated with a classic winner.

Drysdale's tip: don't look back

were shipping out, some to Pimlico for the Preakness, Drysdale remained at Churchill Downs, working on A. P. Indy's foot.

"Being it was a blind quarter crack (it can't be seen), we had to try to pin-point the area that was affected," he said. "After we accomplished that we went ahead and equipped him with bar shoes and put on a fiberglass quarter crack patch, which helped alleviate the condition. If he had put in a scintillating work, who knows, he might have been able to make the Preakness, but I just didn't feel the foot had stabilized enough to run him. I feel the fiberglass patch has made a big difference."

Drysdale switched back to conventional shoes and ran him in the Peter Pan Stakes at Belmont Park. After running fifth early, A. P. Indy made a big move around the far turn to take the lead. Colony Light, another horse coming off a layoff, quickly moved up from last place to challenge A. P. Indy for the lead. But when Eddie Delahoussaye asked the son of Seattle Slew to run, he responded by drawing off to a five and a half lengths victory in the fast time of 1:47 2/5 for the mile and an eighth.

"At first I felt the move was a little premature but I think he might have been a little fresh," Drysdale said with a laugh. "Delahoussaye said the horse wanted to go, and being he was moving so easily he just let him go."

Drysdale has taken every step to get A. P. Indy in top shape and ready for the Belmont. Is there anything left?

"Keep our fingers crossed and just see how we do," he said.

Litfin Analysis

performance in the Peter Pan stakes on May 24—his first start since sustaining a quarter-crack on the eve of the Derby.

CASUAL LIES steadied turning into the backstretch when beaten two lengths by A.P. Indy in the Santa Anita Derby, and along with Pine Bluff, he may have a conditioning edge over that rival after solid efforts back to back in the Derby and Preakness. At Pimlico, Casual Lies moved strongly leaving the far turn, but then angled over to the rail (which was the deepest path of the drying-out surface) and continued on determinedly.

AL SABIN certainly has the pedigree to handle the Belmont distance, as he is out of Sabin, a multiple stakes-winning mare at 12 furlongs in the 1980s.

Although talent a question, My Memoirs on upswing

By GEORGE ENNOR

LONDON, England—My Memoirs went on a round-trip of 150 miles as part of his preparation for Saturday's Belmont Stakes when he worked at Lingfield Park racecourse late last week.

"We wanted him to go round the turns and he did it well; he went about a mile," said the colt's trainer, Richard Hannon, whose third U.S. runner My Memoirs will be.

As far as staying a mile and a half is concerned, Hannon "sees no reason why not; he was finishing like a train over a mile and a quarter when he won the Dee (the listed race My Memoirs won at Chester last time)."

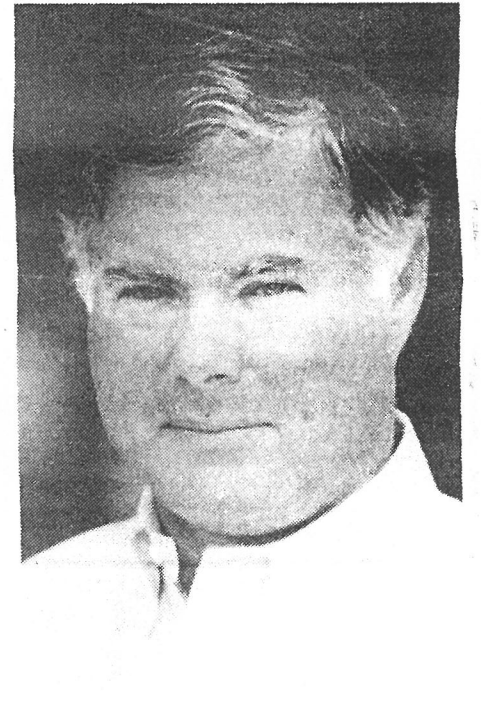

Hannon, whose two previous U.S. runners (Only Yours and Showbrook in Kentucky last fall), had almost everything go wrong with them—one was 44 hours in transit and the other was partly blind when his goggles slipped—makes the journey to Belmont Park for what will be the last race My Memoirs runs for his stable.

After the race My Memoirs will stay in the United States, though his new owners, Team Valor Stable and agent Andy Smith, who handled the deal on their behalf, have not yet decided who will be the colt's trainer.

My Memoirs is a tough, consistent and hard-working colt though it has to be said that nothing he has achieved so far has put one in mind of a classic level contender in this country and he was not considered worthy of entry for the Derbys in Rome or Hamburg, let alone at Epsom.

That to an extent can be counter-balanced by saying that he appears to be on the upgrade and that his form is advancing as he goes over longer distances, but even so things are put into some sort of proportion by the fact that he was rated 44 pounds behind Arazi by Timeform last year and did not get a mark on this in the international classifications.

He is a son of the dual 2,000 Guineas winner Don't Forget Me, who was also trained by Hannon in the Wiltshire village of Fast Everleigh, and his first venture into public life represented something of a loss for one of the British Isles' ace pin-hookers, Timmy Hyde of the Camas Park Stud in Ireland. Hyde paid $49,500 for the colt as a foal but received only just over half that when he was re-sold as a yearling.

My Memoirs ran five times as a 2-year-old. Like every horse that leaves Hannon's yard to go racing, he knew his job from flagfall and made a winning debut in a run-of-the-mill race at Chepstow at the end of June. He moved up from six to seven furlongs next time and did well to upset the odds-on Alhijaz at York, getting two pounds and winning by half a length.

The colt did not win in three other starts last year, but he ran well in defeat, particularly when just failing to confirm York form with Alhijaz (beaten a head on five-pound worse terms) at Lingfield. He also showed good pace behind Dr Devious at Goodwood and in the Tattersalls race at Newmarket won by Derby contender

Young Senor.

Hannon says that he is a horse who likes being up with the pace from the start—Don't Forget Me had the same characteristic—and that My Memoirs was a bit unlucky when only third at Doncaster first time out this year.

The colt then moved up from seven furlongs to a mile and finished fourth, though a decisively beaten fourth, to the subsequent Predominate Stakes winner Jeune at Thirsk. Last time he went farther up in distance, to a mile and a quarter for the Dee Stakes at Chester. He found the ultra-tight track easy to handle, producing a strong run in the short straight to get up to snatch the listed prize by a short head from Profusion, who was receiving four pounds. Torrey Canyon, favorite and third at Chester after pulling too hard, went on to beat the 2,000 Guineas third Pursuit of Love at Kempton Park two weeks ago though it is probably unwise to take those two comparative bits of form too literally.
