CLOSER LOOK: All things considered, his latest effort after a long layoff was a decent performance; however, it might be worth noting the presence of Castellano aboard Hidden Vow; on a positive note, Rosario has won with 5 of 14 (36%) mounts for this barn at the current meeting.

He was in good form prior to stretching back out in distance in his latest start, but with his latest effort in tow, it's tough to envision him getting the job done in this spot; don't want to ignore how live this barn has been at this meeting, but looking toward others.

He did benefit from an ideal ground saving trip in his latest start and gave up a clear late lead, but he was a little rank running through the stretch the first time, and perhaps that played a role in him getting a little tired nearing the finish; overall, feel that his latest effort was a positive while making his first start for this barn.

He has some early speed and he's been a pretty consistent performer in his seven turf starts, but he's yet to record a turf victory, and this has to be considered a tough spot for his first start of 2014.

Stakes placed gelding ran well when outrunning his odds three back behind Kharafa and Lubash, and it was nice to see him bounce back from a sub par performance in his latest outing when finishing right behind today's rival Ocala Jim; he is light on winning form after 23 starts, but his best effort makes him a threat; Castellano has won with 6 of 16 (38%) mounts for this barn at the current meeting.

Not wild about the time off she's needed since her first start in America, but thought she ran a little better than it looks on paper in that race while lagging behind a slow early pace through the opening stages; if nothing else, she appears to be well meant with Ortiz getting the call for this.

Stakes placed mare is capable of getting herself into the mix against these on her best day, but when taking into account all of the second and third-place finishes she's settled for in her career, it's tough to back her for the top spot; that said, she does appear to be in good form at the moment and she's being reunited with Castellano for this.

He was ready to roll in his first start back from a layoff in his latest outing, but he wasn't able to free himself of traffic until the final 16th of a mile, and when he did, he ran on well to the finish; winner from latest won next out here on 8/18 going 1m over turf vs. 62k OPC's with an 88 Beyer, and runner-up finished second next out in a 75k OPC with an 80 Beyer. -Brian Pochman

CLOSER LOOK: Key off the Grade 3 effort after maiden breaker and the class is there; she has the shore experience to build on now; 6/8 show horse took a $50K optional, then lost in a stakes; winner 6/8 took a restricted $100K stakes, then was 2nd beaten a length and a half in the Grade 1 Secretariat at AP last Saturday; the hotter the pace the better for this racer.

Been given time since tough beat at GP; place horse in last took a $25K optional next out, 8th finisher beat $50K starter foes next time; he caught live splits last time and just could not keep up; may like it here.

Distance last time could have been pushing the envelope; apparently not much of a work horse, he has shown the ability to lead or come from left field and it's always nice to have options; don't dismiss.

 Never been a bit proponent of the weight factor but he carried 16 more pounds to victory in the lone score; like the spacing of the comeback drills; who was he facing at Haydock last time; that winner 5/30 was 2nd a half next out in a $68.4K fray vs. 11 foes; rates upset glance.

CLOSER LOOK: Draws down inside for another crack at the level after offering little from an outside path in his first start over the local main track last month; mare wasn't bad when second at a slightly shorter trip in her North American debut run and both of her scores in her Native Argentina did come at this 7 panel distance; sharp interim bullet drill and the presence of the meet's top pilot suggest she may be set for a much improved try; expecting they'll look to be more aggressive with her from the bell today.

Didn't offer much in her turf debut from a tough post over the course last month and now she'll get back to the main track; her maiden score 2 back from the fence earned a number that fits well in here and her last could have her legged up well for the return to sprinting today; contender.

Field's highest last out Beyer earner goes from a local 2 turn route try in which she was right there in mid-stretch to a sprint trip she's yet to tackle; filly's other big figure effort came in a one turn mile at Churchill this spring in which she had the lead at the 7 panel mark which is the trip she'll turn back to here; she's handy enough to secure a spot within striking range early in a field that doesn't look to contain pace players that could get too far away from her; main danger.

Twelfth time proved the charm for this sophomore who enters today's heat on a Beyer upswing since returning from a winter freshening; her local return try was excellent considering she broke last from the fence and encountered some trouble in the lane and she will get an added panel in which to make her run today; must be considered.

Took her 16 cracks to break her maiden and she'd hit the board in 10 of them prior to finding the winner's circle; filly got a little break in preparation for her local return but she hasn't run particularly well here; barn does do a nice job with its cut backs, but this one will be tackling winners today and that won't make the repeat task an easy one.

Switches surfaces while cutting back a panel in her local debut; filly will also catch older for the initial time in this spot and she has had her issues since stepping in with winners; dirt starts to begin her career don't suggest she's going to love the move back to the main track, either.

She hasn't run well in either of her local starts but she will get off the fence for this after getting back on her game from the Parx fence in her last couple of starts; filly should appreciate today's added half panel and her career best Beyer did come at a slightly shorter one turn trip back in early spring; barn hasn't had much luck here, but at a decent price she's one to consider.

Wide trip didn't help her when sent off a big price behind a subsequent repeater on the local sod last month; she just missed at a longer trip when trying the Belmont dirt and getting a hot clip in front of her 2 back; mare isn't the most consistent sort, but she does get a switch to a pilot who has been going well here and maybe she's able to get up for a minor share at a price if the pace comes back to her.

Was freshened after her failure in the Distaff Turf Mile at CD; she certainly didn't run badly in there - losing by 3 1/4 lengths - but she was never a threat to win; the performance, even taking into account a slow start, was below her best; certainly quite good when she puts it all together, but perhaps a little past her prime and also disadvantaged by not having raced since early May.

Likely because of her style, she doesn't win often and settles for a lot of minor awards; the company she has faced has contributed to that, too - along with the pace in those races; this gal has tried to rally from behind slow splits on a number of occasions; not a whole lot of pace in here but the class relief should suit; edge.

CLOSER LOOK: He ran a huge race and earned his career-best Beyer Speed Figure in the Amsterdam but was left in the dust by Coup de Grace; unfortunately for his connections he drew the rail again and if Rosario hustles him out of there he could be the inside horse in a possible 3-horse duel; he doesn't need the lead to win, though, so maybe Rosario will try and put him into a stalking position; either way, this looks like a tough spot for him.

Toss his race in the Kentucky Derby and he's been rock solid; he's also undefeated sprinting and he easily handled C. Zee the only time he tried this distance; he chased a fast one before tiring in the Grade 1 Haskell in his latest and he certainly won't mind the move back to a sprint; he's also capable of stalking what should be fast and hotly contested pace; contender.

All three of his wins came on Polytrack but he ran a big race when he just missed to Haskell winner Bayern in the Derby Trial at Churchill before taking a break; his comeback race at Arlington was solid and the horse he beat was coming off an easy win in a $75K stakes at Prairie Meadows where he received a 98 Beyer Speed Figure; according to Formulator the last time Proctor ran a horse in a graded stakes at Saratoga was in 2010 when he won the Grade 3 Glens Falls with Keertana; interesting.

He's been just about perfect since he moved to Morley's barn and he earned a career-high 100 Beyer Speed Figure for his win in his latest; this is a huge step up after winning a $40K optional race for NY-breds, however; plus the horse he beat was claimed for $25K in his previous race and finished 7th as the chalk in a $25K starter race in his next start here; prefer others.

He's a Grade 2 winner but that was a very weak field he beat in the Jerome; and the only horse that has won since was Scotland who won a maiden special weight race with a 77 Beyer Speed Figure two starts later; he's been away since April 5 when he wasn't much of a threat in the Grade 3 Wood and the past five years Gyarmati has an 11 percent strike rate with horses coming back between 61-180 days; he will need to be a much-improved horse to make an impact here; passing.

He couldn't have been more impressive in his first two starts at Gulfstream and being out of $2 million Grade 1 winner Dreaming of Anna he could have considerable upside; this came up pretty tough, and not sure he has the seasoning with just two starts behind him to tackle this kind of field; he reportedly looked fantastic when he worked a bullet five furlongs in :58.60 seconds here Aug. 16, and it is encouraging to see Mr. Velazquez accept the call; nonetheless, he's probably going to get over bet so we're going to take a stand against him.

He has improved dramatically in his last two starts but both times he had things his own way and he is going to have to deal with other speed today, particularly the one breaking right next to him; nonetheless, he has shown he doesn't need the lead to run a big race, and he's in very good hands with Castellano aboard; he's had a couple of sharp works since he romped in his first start over this surface and any way you slice it, he has to be considered a serious player in this very compelling race.

He was set up perfectly in the Amsterdam and it sure looks like he's is going to get the same kind of trip here; he also drew the outside post where Napravnik can put him where she wants without worrying about traffic issues; he is a bounce candidate after posting his career-best Beyer Speed Figure but from the looks of his two sharp interim works at Delaware he just might be peaking; the past five years Jones is 2/5 with horses running in graded stakes at Saratoga and 1/4 in Grade 1's; the pick. -Randy Goulding

CLOSER LOOK: The class is there off the Frizette win last year; she pushed live splits in the BC Juvenile Fillies and just had nothing left; hung wide in the Acorn but she got a nice little confidence builder last time; winner of the Acorn proved it was no fluke taking the Test next with an identical 93 Beyer; visually impressive in last but she got her last furlong in 13:09; she will be hard pressed to clear; needs very best.

Both wins this year came in optional claiming land and note she was losing ground in both of the efforts at this demanding distance; stars like Davona Dale and Lady's Secret have won this race over the decades and last year Dance to Bristol was coming off a neck win in a G2 before she won for the 7th straight time in this race with a 94 Beyer; proven fresh, but not against this kind of company.

Respect this multiple Grade 1 winner; she sure has not ducked anybody in her career either; was bumped around repeatedly last time; if she had another prep under her girth she would have had the Personal Ensign Invitational at 1 1/8 miles as a possibility; last race may have served as the ideal prep; should be right there with the A game.

Love fact she has speed but she can sit just off the pace and get it done too; 3 exited the 6/11 event to win next out; filly is coming to the race right but this is a very ambitious placing; not sold on chances.

Here's another mare that just invents ways to win; Jersey-bred is drawn right, she's in good hands, but this race is a far cry from controlling the pace and the outcome vs. 3 rivals last time; would tread lightly here. --Brian Mulligan

Seeks his fourth straight score after upsetting the Curlin Stakes here last month while making his first 2 turn try on the main track; he's another who has only run several times so improvement is not out of the question, but he'll also need to move forward quite a bit to get in the mix; his barn is having an excellent local meeting and they won this race with Afleet Express in 2010.

Colt ran will several times sprinting out of town earlier in the year before trying 2 turns for the initial time in his local debut; pedigree suggests he should get better with distance so maybe he's got a move forward in him second time going long and he was really moving past the wire last time; he's been working well over the track of late and it wouldn't be a surprise to see him take a big step forward at price in this class test.

Belmont Stakes winner got his local prep in him in the 9 panel G2 Jim Dandy here last month and he understandably came up a little short late while getting ready for the ultimate goal of today's heat; he should appreciate the added ground here for a barn that excels with runners second time back from the break and he figures to be in a spot within striking range of the pacesetters from the bell; looks to be the one they'll have to beat today.

Jim Dandy winner looked like a different runner when equipped with shades for that heat' looming quite strong from the gate in taking his first start since getting beaten less than 2 lengths by Tonalist in the Belmont Stakes; he'll draw outside the speed of Bayern today and that should again give him a target to track; colt handles the trip and could again find himself with first run on the Belmont Stakes winner if the frontrunner does pack it in; huge repeat threat.

 He came into his own earlier in the year when thrown into stakes company in Maryland second time off this barn's claim and his lone poor effort came in the G1 Preakness Stakes this spring; colt gave a nice account of himself in the Jim Dandy last time out but the top 2 finishers defeated him quite handily and they both show up in this heat as well; maybe the added furlong helps him offer more, but have to think he's best used underneath in exotics wagers.

He's a twice graded stakes placed colt who didn't have much to offer behind some of these while sitting a trip down inside in the Jim Dandy last month; he doesn't have much early foot but he did find himself a little closer to the top early last time and maybe today's added real estate is to his benefit; still, he hasn't run close to fast enough to prove a player in here and doesn't look to be a serious threat.

McGaughy colt enters this race as a G1 SW at 10 panels but he did so on the Belmont lawn before being given some time to prepare for this; colt's lone dirt spin wasn't very good though he was in against top company and his pedigree suggests he should handle the footing so a second try over it at a trip could result in an improved performances; recent breezes over the local main track give the indication that he's set to give a good account of himself at what will be a nice price, but he catches a rather salty bunch today; barn won this race 3 times, including the 1989 renewal with Easy Goer. -Steve Grabowski

CLOSER LOOK: Her career debut was an impressive winning performance from far off of the early pace, and she just didn't seem to have her mind on running in her first start over this turf course in her latest outing; feel that she's eligible to be ready for better in her second attempt against winners.

Her two most recent races point her out as a top contender in this race but there might be something to be said for the fact that Ortiz pilots another in here; regardless, she loses nothing with Castellano taking over, and in a race that seems to lack early speed, she has the ability to run her race on the front end.

Great sign the rider from last who seemingly had other options stays right here; was screaming out for more distance in last but remains at 1M and 1-16th; was claimed off a Hall of Fame barn 2 back; his lone win was June, 2012, in a BEL-1Mile 25K maiden claimer.

The main issue is that he has been outfinished in deep stretch in several of his prior grass losses; moves all the way outside which means a ground-losing trip however won his only start when breaking widest of 7; the 1-turndirt Mile when breaking his maiden suggests he wants shorter than today's stamina test.

His lone win was sitting just off the speed and probably gets that same type of trip today with Macagone the one to catch; was ambitiously placed in last to try stakes company but responded pretty well in that effort and both races with blinkers off have been solid efforts in defeat; view as an exotics possibility. -Art Gropper
