A CLOSER LOOK

Kentucky Oaks

Reinstedler's filly faces her most difficult test to date in a race where the real battle, on paper at least, appears to be for the second and third place money; her 4/22 work was sharp, and clearly the best of the day with only 1 of 53 coming within 2/5 of a second; would not be a surprise to see this miss hit the board (would be a monumental upset to see her beating Urbane); adjust your exotic wagers accordingly as she'll hold plenty of value.

Forested

Panamanian entrant, now under the tutelage of Callejas, makes her second U.S. start in this unlikely spot following a run in the Cicada at AQU and earned a surprisingly good Beyer Figure for her effort (Lucky Lavender Girl, a 30-1 longshot, put up a 98 with her win); still, prime reason for considering this gal is the fact that Bailey takes the mount (he won this race in 1993 with Dispute and completed a rare Oaks/Derby double by guiding Sea Hero to a victory the same year); like his chances on Saturday better.

Gal In A Ruckus

She has the benefit of two races over the strip, one in an allowance race last fall where she finished second, and the other, a trip in the Golden Rod where she tied to finish fifth; the Golden Rod has been her only try around two turns and with no works longer than five panels this year and the fact she's had just one six and a half furlong start as a three-year-old, have to consider her questionable at the mile and an eighth Oaks distance; like others better.

Urbane

Could things get any better for this daughter of Citidancer with Cat's Cradle and Serena's Song defecting from the field? If anyone is interested in handing over the Oaks trophy to Mayberry prior to this race, however, don't look for him to accept it; he made certain he cautioned Eddie D. about overconfidence prior to Urbane's victory in the Ashland (Eddie D. still toyed with a field very similar to today's before urging Urbane on to a four length victory); indeed, overconfidence may be the only thing Mayberry has to worry about — not one young miss in this field has come close to earning a Beyer figure that approaches the triple-digit monsters this filly has turned out in her four races since last November; the price will be short, but the roar will be great as this lady enters the stretch in front of 80,000, heavily-leveraged Urbane fans.

Sneaky Quiet

Seeking the Gold filly has been engaged since last July, though her schedule has slowed down a bit since February; she's been breezing well at Churchill since the end of April and enters this race with two victories in her last three starts, her only loss a fourth place finish in the Bonnie Miss to Mia's Hope; she likes to run from well off the pace, closing from as far as 17 lengths back, and will undoubtedly be hoping for some quick early fractions today to set up her late charge; she's the only entrant in this field to have a running style vastly different from Urbane's and as a result deserves top billing for a shot at completing the exacta.

Lone graded stakes winner in this field, other than Urbane, was full of run early in the Ashland but tired to finish third, though she was game trying to fight off Conquistadress for the second place money; primary concern is that we may have seen her best race this year in the Ashland as she produced a career-best figure and is making her fifth start since March 7; prefer others.

Turfway's Valdare Stakes winner is easily the one filly that can be dismissed from a top three finish today based on her effort against lesser caliber opponents in the Bourbonette; was easily the best in the Alabama Oaks last time, but she never has earned a Beyer Figure higher than 77 and must be considered a longshot to find a share today.

Cat Appeal

Storm Cat filly from the Overbrook Farm - Lukas team has yet to win at a distance beyond a mile through three attempts, including two over this surface; no question she needed the start in the Beaumont last time and is capable of improvement off that effort, also gets Day back in the saddle today; outside post is no bargain and one would expect that the lengths she loses early will be
