CLOSER LOOK Terrific ol' warrior; hey, you don't win 14 times by accident; was still good enough last fall to go into the G1 BC Turf Sprint as the favorite and he ran 5th after a slow start and more trouble into the far turn; hasn't been seen since so there's a layoff to ponder, but he's run well before off the bench; speed to be in it from the start; in fact, if Hidden Scroll doesn't send this guy could be the controlling speed, which is scary.

CLOSER LOOK Super try in the G3 Daytona at SA last time out as he was troubled in the lane; that was a brutally tough group, too; it was also his first start in almost 7 months so he can certainly improve off that run; most of his best work has come in the lane but note in that May 23 start he wasn't far off sizzling splits so he doesn't have to come from way out of it, and that versatility gives his rider options; worked well since, too.

CLOSER LOOK Maybe the polarizing horse in training; there are those who think him the 2nd coming and others who scoff at the suggestion he's even a graded stakes type; at least he can't be judged on that last run when he stumbled badly and dropped his rider; that was to be his first start on turf so we're still up in the air about his turf ability; the good news is he's been working wonderfully on turf all the while so he handles it; trouble is, when he's been looked in the eye turning for home he's blinked; speed is his main asset but what's he to do when ol' pro Pure Sensation goes with him or is faster?

CLOSER LOOK 4 of his 5 wins have come here so at least he has a bit of a homefield edge; of course, that work came vs. lesser than he faces here; the good news is he's shown glimpses of big ability; after all, he was 3rd in a Canadian G1 turf sprint a year ago; trouble is, after that came 2-plus months on the bench, a dull 8th in a G3 turf sprint at KD and now another nearly 10 months of inactivity; so, besides facing tougher he's asked to do so off a layoff; but hey, Clement doesn't win a lot of races because he puts his horses in bad spots, right?

TRAINER: Turf (4 .00 $0.00) Sprint (1 .00 $0.00)

CLOSER LOOK 2 of his 3 wins have come here, though both came on the Widener Course - we're on the inner course today; did some good work last year, though of course that all came against lesser than he faces here; also, it's not as if he comes here riding high as after being gone over 6 months he hit the brakes hard in a turf sprint stakes here June 7; yes, he may well have needed that race, but it still doesn't exactly get the pulse racing and surely he's facing tougher today; maybe dropping back a full furlong will be key...maybe.

CLOSER LOOK This race was not on the radar for this Tapit homebred, until that sharp allowance score here 16 days ago that is; showed good speed right from the start in that spot and he never let up at any point en route to a dominant win with a 97 Beyer; that appeared to be a solid group of allowance rivals on the way in but he is facing much tougher here have to believe he will have to go some in order to clear off on this field; has always appeared to have talent and respect that he has clearly improved in his two starts so far this year; interesting.

CLOSER LOOK Strong closer looked good winning his first two starts on turf and he has brought that form over to the main track while winning the Grade 3 Sam F. Davis - closing into a fast pace - and finishing a good 2nd in the Tampa Bay Derby as a follow-up; prepped for this 10 days ago by closing down allowance rivals without having to go all-in and his connections are showing some confidence by wheeling him right back into the Belmont; needs some pace to run at but expecting him to make his presence felt if he gets it.

CLOSER LOOK The break in the racing action this spring may have affected this colt more than anyone as the Belmont will now be his first start he came wide and closed down the Withers with a strong finish and a new top Beyer; he has shown a strong closing kick in each of his three starts so far and it is hard not to imagine that there is much more to come for this guy, but this is a hard spot in career start number four, even with this race ultimately lacking the kind of depth it could have had just a few weeks ago; respect his talent and he appears to be training strongly into this race; don't dismiss.

CLOSER LOOK Uncle Mo homebred has a strong distance pedigree on the bottom and he has been coming forward slowly but surely for Mott as the distances have increased and his resent sharp work in company with Tacitus apparently prompted his connections to enter here; he broke his maiden in his first start over this distance then came right back to win the slower division of the Grade 2 Risen Star at the Fair Grounds while seeing out that distance a bit better than his rivals; thought his La. Derby was okay last time when caught wide off a rated pace but he is a little slow for this field right now.

CLOSER LOOK His three wins over here have all come sprinting - and he rode a gold rail in one of those - and he was nowhere in his two Grade 1 attempts as a 2yo; went to Dubai for his 3yo debut and scored over a one-turn mile after clearing to the lead with little trouble and controlling that race all the way; in much tougher this time and seems unlikely to make the early lead.

CLOSER LOOK Well-connected Candy Ride colt enters the Belmont Stakes with a top Beyer of 66 after being beaten by at least 14 lengths in each of his last four starts; hard to recommend in a race like this but he will be a huge price if you have found something to latch onto.

CLOSER LOOK The lone Grade 1 winner in this field (he has two) will go heavily-favored in this race based on the form, as he has dominated the Florida preps on the way here and has earned the lone triple-digit Beyer in the field; have no real knocks on him, though he is going to be a very short price and the Holy Bull and Florida Derby were hardly stellar editions this year; tactical colt is easy to root for and likely has a good trip coming but he is going to be very short on the board and really only has one figure that stands out; the horse to beat.

CLOSER LOOK One of the more interesting entrants in this race, he has won both starts since returning from a long layoff in March and earned a solid figure for that maiden win first time back; his figure declined when stretched out last time but he can have some extra credit for that effort as he was kept in tight for much of that race and persevered despite never really having any breathing room until the late stages; there is talent here and the distance is not supposed to hurt his chances; interesting and he benefits as much as anyone from the overall lack of depth here.

CLOSER LOOK Lightly-raced colt looked good winning his first two starts and really handled the stretch out two back when rated off and then powering to the front when ready; had no excuses last time in the Matt Winn but he was defeated by a top colt and didn't embarrass himself at all in that spot, though would have liked to see him prevail for 2nd; forward to go and he is tactical from the outside draw.
